LONDON REGION POST-14 NETWORK

This Network, an initiative of the Institute of Education, brings together policy makers, the research community and practitioners working in 14-19 and post compulsory education. Long regarded as the authoritative voice of lifelong learning in London, the Network maintains an independence, scrutinizing policy, supporting professionals in their work, and encouraging innovation and reform. The Network runs a wide ranging programme of conferences, seminars and working days which provide a lively forum for sharing information and good practice, analysing developments in the sector and discussing emerging issues in the 14-19 and Adult sectors. Regular planning meetings provide opportunities for members to play an active role in the development of our research, participate in our debates on current issues, and devise our future programme.

Subscriptions to the Network run from 1 August – 31 July each year, and are invited as follows:

1. Individual	2. Small organisations (fewer than 20 employees) and voluntary bodies	3. School, College, University or Union	4. Local Authorities, Government and National Agencies, Boards, and other major institutions
£25	£100	£150	£300

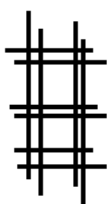

Members will receive

- substantial discounts for charged events
- exclusive access to invitation-only research seminars, workshops, and lectures
- invitations to the Centre for Post-14 Research and Innovation Open Lecture Series, and Research Seminar Series on Key Issues in Lifelong Learning
- access to the Centre for Post-14 Research and Innovation website, where a members only portal is to be developed
- exclusive briefing papers and policy updates, providing useful background and research information on Post-14 matters
- the right to attend, and vote at, three Strategic Planning Group meetings per year
- entitlement to request or suggest areas of research activity, and topics for seminars and conferences.

All subscribers are eligible to send representatives to Network Strategy Group meetings and, in the event of a decision going to a vote, each individual or participating organisation present will have one vote. Member institutions will be invited to nominate up to six names to receive restricted, Post-14 Network member e-mails and bulletins. All employees of the institution will continue to enjoy members' benefits but it is hoped, by this means, to make internal circulation more rapid and accurate, and to reduce the need for paper based dissemination.
