HOT TOPIC

Event outline:

'Our schools should be engines of social mobility, helping children to overcome the accidents of birth and background to achieve much more than they may ever have imagined'
Michael Gove, Secretary of State for Education, November 2010.

This hot topic examines the role of the Single Equality Scheme in the government's commitment to narrowing gaps, and to tackling the barriers to equal opportunities and social mobility which hold individuals back, and bring heavy social and economic costs.

We shall examine some best practices to unpack top priorities for action, those areas where we can make the biggest differences, most quickly, and to the most lives.
